Capital costs may reach $24M

By Rick Chartrand

Projected capital projects totalling a staggering $24 million over the next five years were discussed by the Town of Drayton Valley at a public meeting held in the provincial building last week.

For the next five years the town is facing a considerable outlay of capital expenditures," said town manager Bill Johnson in outlining tentative capital projects (1980-1984) to over $5 million, which would cost the town $1.5 million.

In the 1977 discovery that the West Pembina

oilfield had given a tremendous shot in the arm to development in the town.

For example, Johnson said building permits in 1979

totalled over $5 million, starting in 1977 they have averaged each year between $9 and $11 million.

As a result, Johnson explained, town council had to assess land for industrial and residential development, and suddenly found itself in the "private construction business" building roads, sewers, sidewalks and the like.

With the population budget and the need for new water and sewer systems, "I had to do it,"

said Johnson, "I wish in many ways it was very difficult and frustrating."

Projects and costs being considered for the next five years are (including 1980):

* upgrading of the water plant, pumping capacity, line supply line, the storage reservoir, the gravity tank sewer line, a sewer plant, and creek development,

which may cost a total of $12,000,000.

* upgrading the water distribution systems which may cost $1,000,000.

* upgrading the storm sewer system which could cost $2,000,000.

* upgrading the sewer collection system, estimated to cost $600,000.

* additions to the airport,

including possibly a new

terminal and better taxi-

ways, which could cost the town $300,000.

Total cost of all these

expenditures is estimated roughly at $24,000,000. Expected grants from the province add up to

$8,000,000, which leaves a

another $16 million.

* shop construction and also storage estimated to cost $1.5 million.

* traffic improvements which may cost $500,000.

* opening costs for a new landfill site (the be-shared with the county), the town's portion of the cost estimated at $100,000.

* improvements to the country which is expected to cost $30,000.

* additions to the airport,

including possibly a new

terminal and better taxi-

ways, which could cost the town $300,000.

Total cost of all these

expenditures is estimated

roughly at $24,000,000. Expected grants from the province add up to

$8,000,000, which leaves a

another $16 million.

Asbestos in schools 'no danger at all'

By Jayne Creighton

Although the government has recently ordered all school boards throughout the province to check for hazardous asbestos fibres, a supervisor for the County of Parkland Board of Education says he is "100 per cent sure that there is no danger here."

Bob Goldstein, asbestos supervisor, who has spent two weeks he will be working for the school board for 20 years, says he knows asbestos materials were never used in construction with the exception of a boiler in Drayton Valley's Eldorado School. But that boiler is well sealed and not potentially hazardous, he added.

Two weeks ago the County of Parkland Board of Education received a letter from the Director of School Buildings, asking them to indicate "the number of schools which (the school board) suspects to have friable (crumbly) asbestos materials."

More Pembina oil with costly process

By Rick Chartrand

An additional 1.5 billion barrels of oil could be recovered from the Pembina oilfield if a more costly enhanced recovery process is used, said Donna Peterson company in an interview with the Western Review last week.

But whether the enhanced recovery (called tertiary or miscible flooding) process is ever used in the Pembina oilfield depends on the return on investment the oil companies realize. This in turn depends largely on oil pricing agreements and royalty arrangements with the provincial and federal governments.

Donna Peterson was one of many oil companies last week at the Pembina oil field. She was one of the speakers at the 25th hearing in Calgary last week on the recovery of oil from the province from now until the year 2000.

Housing industry

Rates cause uncertainty

By Don Leman

The demand for new housing in Drayton Valley has fallen so drastically in the last few months, and at least one local building contractor feels that the market can be held open only on the fluctuating interest rates.

John Canale, manager of JM Construction, says he has experienced a drastic reduction in business in the past six months, and he blames the ever-changing interest rates.

"I would say business is down 60 per cent as compared to the time last year, and it's because the rates have been going up and down so much."

When the rates were going up, Canale says, people didn't want to pay the high monthly payments on mortgages, and now that the rates are on the way down, people are still wary.

"Even with the lower rates, people are reluctant to take a chance on building a new house, afraid that the rates are going to jump back up again later on."

The drop in demand for new homes has also affected Canale's business in other ways, particularly his carpentry.

"When the rates were highest, I had to let three of my workers go, because the demand for new homes just wasn't there, but they have since been rehired."

The fear of the home-buyer's panic has led to a significant drop in business for the local mortgage companies, as well.

"When people are forced into choosing between a two-year mortgage and no mortgage, and now that the rates are on the way down, people are still wary."

While the new housing market appears to be in a rather unstable position, the market for other homes is experiencing a slow boom, and that could be a credit to the interest rates.

Lorne Pluhack, Ontario 21 agent, says the increase in sales of older homes can be attributed to a higher interest rate, especially in March and April.

"Strange as it seems, when the interest rates were highest, our sales were very good, but now that the rates have dropped, our sales seem to have dropped."

Overall, however, Pluhack adds that sales are holding for now, at least.

"The residential market is really good right now, and our sales for the first six months are up by more than 30 per cent over the same period last year," he says.

"I guess people are reacting to the fact that slightly better residential units will soon be a luxury, and they want to get in on something before it's too late."

Meanwhile, banks, caught in the middle of the interest rate game, are not actively encouraging mortgage applications, at least until the rate structure are fixed.

"We are encouraging more people coming in for mortgage applications to wait

RCMP Sgt. moving East

Sgt. Gary Schaefer of Drayton Valley RCMP is being transferred to Ottawa, and will leave before the end of the summer.

Schaefer, who has worked in Drayton Valley for seven years, will be moving to RCMP headquarters where he will be involved with the training and development of recruits.

Schaefer says he has a transfer to come sometime. He has always been interested in working with recruits, and he says when the opportunity arose, he accepted it.

During the three years Sgt. Schaefer has been stationed in Drayton Valley, he says he has met the most dedicated, and he has been involved with the problems that accompany last proof.

Ottawa has been reduced, which speaks well for the police programs, says Schaefer.

"During my time there has not been one death in town attributed to drinking and driving, and I find this stems from the vigorous enforcement in this area. As a result of this enforcement people tend to know what we are involved in. We have a very high profile with respect to patrolling and we are trying to make this town a safe place to live by being in and the problems associated with transient movement," says Sgt. Schaefer.

"I have had complete support from town officials, and anyone we have approached has wanted to be some degree or another," he concludes.

He will then have a place to construct a building, and after all, we don't buy fast for investment," said Don Duff of the Property Management Association in Edmonton.

New building for police?

Within a month or two, RCMP headquarters in Edmonton is expected to choose a site location for a new Drayton Valley police building.

Officials from the federal department of Public Works were in Drayton Valley last month to look at several possible sites for a new building which may be built within the next few years.

Through an official, the Edmonton refused to say whether or when a new RCMP building would be built, he did mention that a site acquisition is "pretty definite."

"We will then have a place to construct a building, and after all, we don't buy fast for investment," said Don Duff of the Property Management Association in Edmonton.

Hill would not say where Drayton Valley stands on a list of priorities for new police buildings in Alberta. As funds become available (from the federal department of Public Works), they will be allocated, he said.

Added when Drayton Valley might get a new RCMP building, Hill said it would be "difficult to answer because this is a time of federal constraints."

He added it would take one year to design a new building, then it would have to be tendered, then it would take another eight to 12 months to construct. It would take altogether "at least two to three years," he said.

Besides looking at possible sites for a new building, a space analysis and manpower study have been RCMP to Page 10

GAPS fighting Genesee plant

By Audrey Dineen of The Representative (The Genesee Agricultural Protection Society) (GAPS) is still fighting to keep the proposed Edmonton Power oil-fired generating plant out of their community.

Letters are being sent to all the cabinet ministers and deputy ministers as well as Premier Peter Lougheed. GAPS president Richard Sharpe said.

"That is all we can do as lobby cabinet," Sharpe said. "They are protesting the reasons for the Energy Recovery Conservation Board (ERCB) findings, which recommended approval of the Genesee project."

he said, noting there is no recommendation dealing with the concept of those who are left in the area of the proposed plant.

"It seemed like a concession to Edmonton Power," Sharpe commented.

He recalled that when he appeared on a radio phone-in show, everyone who called was against the plant, with the exception of Edmonton Power representatives.

"If only GAPS could channel that public opinion into lobby power, Sharpe feels they would "stand a better chance."

"It is not just us in Genesee, but all the citizens in Alberta are going to be ripped off," he said.

Bilingual program

New constable in town

By Joyce Creighton
If anyone has noticed a new face here above the blue and gold uniforms, driving a marked car with a red light on top, it could well be Sylvain Leduc. Drayton Valley's newest RCMP constable.

Leduc is a recent graduate of the police college in Alta. Quebec, and has been transferred to Alberta as part of a federal plan to provide bilingual law enforcement officers.

He is one of 80 officers recently transferred from Quebec and spread throughout the country.

out Alberta and Saskatchewan, part of a plan to serve the public in both English and French.

Leduc says he has already found his French to be useful in Drayton Valley. Last week, he served the court sitting as a translator for a woman unable to speak English. But it is not just undisciplined people that Leduc has to help. Many times, people can speak English, but they do not know or understand enough to understand the law.

Leduc says it is necessary to know when someone with the law.

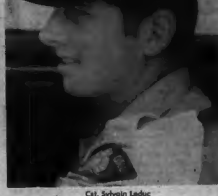

French probably won't be used that often through-out, except occasionally with money here, face don't better them, he suggests. Many people he has stopped do not have licenses—they have been suspended for six months due to previous impaired driving charges.

"They don't turn, they just laugh," he says.

Living in small town Alberta is quite an adjustment to the communal areas which Leduc is used to. But he says instead of going to theatres and cinema on weekends, he will become involved with sports activities.

Leduc will be stationed in Drayton Valley for three to four years, which he expects will be a good situation.

Lake Isle planning

The future of development around Lake Isle, south of Highway 16, is being put under the microscope.

Officials of the counties of Lac Ste. Anne and Parkland and the summer villages of Lake Isle and French View have undertaken a management study of the lake.

Courtesy Brookbridge, planning director for the County of Parkland, told the Western Review on Thursday that the terms of management of the study are in the process of being set.

Once the terms are established, consultants will be sent out to the residents and cottage owners on the lake to gather some input on what they would like to see there.

As well, field testing at the lake will begin shortly, with reports to be collected on such aspects as plant and animal life, soil conditions and suitability for development.

The findings of the study will be used in policy form, and recommendations forwarded to the affected municipalities, including the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission.

The policies that are included in the study will be incorporated in the county's land use bylaws, and eventually that they may play a role in the "Brookbridge said."

A draft plan of the study should be available early in 1991, he added.

Show is the last of the breed

By Dick Loomis

It's the last of its kind in the world, the last here, the last going as long as possible.

"We are definitely the last show in the world, and I'll keep it going as long as I can," says the show's manager, Lona Breen.

The deficit is the result of the town's recreation department, which is the last of its kind in the world, the last here, the last going as long as possible.

Record holders to swim in Drayton Valley meet

Over 100 swimmers holding long, provincial, national and international records will be attending the Neptune annual swim meet at Drayton Valley Saturday, July 5.

"I think this is a really great opportunity for the local swimmers and the general public to see international caliber swimmers," says Terry McNeilly, president of the Neptune swim club.

It is also a chance for the public to view swimmers of international calibre "live". From 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. the Edmonton club will be performing a demonstration for the general public.

The club will be working with the Neptune club, helping them work on their strokes. A barbecue for the visiting club and the local club will be held following the session at the Sports Hall.

The club is being sponsored by the provincial government, through a $10,000 75th anniversary fund, which enable them to travel throughout Alberta, joining local clubs during their annual swim meet.

Starting Friday, the Neptune swim club will be competing.

At noon the 27 members of the national swim team, headed by one of the Olympic coaches, Dave Johnson, will be putting on a demonstration for the public and swimmers. The swim meet will commence, and special meet to Page 2

Biting like crazy? — Don't believe it!

By Ray Hunter

In an earlier column I wrote that I would not tell anything about a recent fishing hole because that usually means the end of the story and the good fishing.

I will add a note to that sentiment. I will no longer believe it when someone tells me the fish are biting the crazy in this hole or that. They are never biting when I go there.

Last year a fellow and I fished from that hole. There was a little school of fish which was full of pike. The guys often specify directions about how to go to this lake and where to fish.

We fished the whole day and caught nothing. We had originally intended to go to a small stream I have fished a few times and always caught nice trout. That is where we should have gone.

About the time every year we head up to Jasper for a weekend of fishing and relaxation. In the past we have fished the Malaga River between Medicine Lake and Malaga Lake with fair success. This year the river is closed to fishing until July 1. The reason is because the fishery is opening at this time and the fishermen were taking a good number of large brook trout all night long. The park officials decided to protect the fish while they were spawning. This is a good idea and although it prohibits some pretty exciting fishing, it will provide the opportunity for more fish in future years.

We rented a boat for Malaga Lake because we had been told that the lake was producing rainbow trout and some pike. The boats are $10 per day.

In the morning we walked the two miles into the lake for a day's fishing. We planned to have supper there and come back out about nine in the evening. We wanted a little extra time in order to struggle along with our huge fish. Malaga Lake is a beautiful little lake and when we got there it was smooth as glass. There were fish rising out of the water.

Not long after we got there wind began to blow and the waves became rapid. When this happened the fish quit rising.

To make a long story short, we fished all morning and up to about five in the afternoon without much success. I had to make for my lake where the fish are biting like crazy. I have no doubt at all that a little earlier the fish were biting, but that is no guarantee that they will be biting all the time.

We left Malaga and the lake by the boat bank. We asked where we might try that evening and the next day. We were told that Beaver Lake had been producing some nice brook trout and the Elk Lake of the Valley of Fire Lake also was producing some exceptionally large brook trout. We asked for Beaver Lake because it was much closer than the Elk Lake.

We had the same kind of luck at Beaver as we had at Malaga Lake. The fish are there but they were not biting. We did manage to get one respectable brook trout of about a pound.

On Sunday morning we went up bright and early, about 6 o'clock. We went for breakfast and were headed out to Pyramid Lake about 11:30.

Pyramid Lake is one of the prettiest lakes I have ever seen. On Sunday morning it was fairly calm and around the edges the water was glass smooth. Fish were rising all over. They were feeding on Mayflies, a fly fishermen's delight. We had lost out and ended up with nine nice trout. Two of these were brook trout and the others were rainbows.

We caught several Rocky Mountain whitefish as well but released all of them back into the lake.

While fishing the morning I met a Mayfly imitator and had great sport. I was particularly interested to note how often the fish missed the imitator they went after.

I watched one particular Mayfly sitting on the surface to see what would happen. It was a curiosity that it would not be there long before a trout took it.

Suddenly there was a swirl but the Mayfly was still on the surface. Three times the same fish attempted to take that Mayfly and missed it. The Mayfly took off and flew a few yards away, in the water and was immediately taken by another fish.

We had success taking a Doc. Spry about forty feet behind the canoe on spinning gear. It seemed to be "the hook" for that lake. We talked to other fishermen and all who were using Doc. Spry took fish. One lucky fellow had a couple of four or five pounders!

Fishing Mayflies is always a "fun" trip for us and as I have said before the outcome of such a trip does not necessarily depend upon catching and fish.

If you want information on fishing in Jasper, Peter Umstad and Bruce Thornberry have produced a book on just that subject. It is a good way to start. Peter was Sunday's Sport King in Jasper and he will give you up-to-date information on what has been happening in various lakes.

Senior Citizens news

Edmonton seniors visit

By Edith Newbery
We had our regular bridge game on Monday.

There were 4 tables. Winners for the sum were Richard O'Connor III and Fred Dockett were low for the sum.

The last before the high was Elizabeth Henson. For the ladies was Bertha Elliot.

On June 24, four people turned up for the checker playoff. They played four games and they will all be going to the new playoff in London, but they haven't decided when that will be.

Bill Newbery was one of the people playing checkers on our July afternoon. Bill Hobbs took us out to supper in the evening.

June 25, we had a bus full of senior citizens from Edmonton on a Royal Tour.

They had dinner at the Drayton Valley Hotel then on to the Drayton Centre for shopping and some dancing.

Our players were Peter Crawford, George Parsons and Emilio Miller.

One of the guests had her 90 birthday day on the table. So the band sang a song to her. By all reports everyone had a real good time.

On June 26, we had our monthly meeting. We had a lot of things discussed and (we hope) settled. We decided a few things and formed some groups.

In the evening the ones who signed for shuffleboard had their playoff at the D.V.

Oscars hold re-union

By Jean Omer

The Oscar family has celebrated Alberta's 75th birthday by having a family reunion at Bayfield Park on June 28 and 29.

Who are the Oscars? Well, Tom and Martha Omer and their nine children were some of the earliest settlers in the Bayfield district.

They took homesteads home in the fall of 1880.

At that time Drayton Valley consisted of a general store and post office and a few log dwellings.

There was nothing at Bayfield. A road had to be headed up of the bank. The road from Estevan to Drayton Valley was a dirt road which was a cumulative mess of dirt.

Tom and Martha have now passed on, so have three of their children (one is a nursing student at the age of 17). But their 50th anniversary, June 28 and 29, was a family reunion.

Tom and Martha were all great, great-grandchildren, were all expected to attend. In addition, several families of cousins from the U.S.A. (Washington and Los Angeles) attended.

The weather cooperated beautifully on June 21 for the Warburg Sports Day activities and the Warburg Games 4-H Club beef show and sale. There was a good crowd out to enjoy the ball games and the beef show. The children made good use of the midway and concession booths. The girls' softball "A" event was won by Tombaugh with Laidlaw coming in second. This left the two Warburg teams to share the "B" event.

Ray Mitchell of Warburg was the judge for the 4-H

Spotting white horse brings good luck!

By Joanne Benger
White horses, or a horse of any other color... White horses figure highly in folklore, and they should, for didn't the bravest of knights always ride on white steeds?

To see a white horse is always good luck. To make the luck even better, some make a wish and chant: "White horse, white horse, ding, ding, ding. On my way I'll find something!"

Then they just carry on, going where they are going, confident that they will find something worth finding.

There are others who swear by a more complicated ritual, involving "stamping," which is an act that consists of linking your thumb, then placing it in the palm of your other hand, and stamping the hand (like it is holding the thumb) with the flat of the hand that has a linked thumb.

How to come back alive

The Canadian Coast Guard has produced a 25-minute film on boating safety.

It's called "Come Back Alive," results from the Coast Guard's concern that in many cases fishermen and hunters out for sport know little about boating safety.

The film describes the basics of boating and how a few simple precautions can save lives without reducing the pleasure and enjoyment of boating.

It covers everything from lifejackets and overboarding

As you "stamp it," you recite this poem:

One crown,
White hair,
Money for the week's drink,
Some say that your wish Don't seem to come true, however, unless you

"stamp" a grand total of 100 white horses in which case, your wish will come true within a month.

Single Girls
Another belief, which especially applied to single girls, was that if one saw and counted 100 white horses, one would meet one's true love and get married.

The funny thing is, horses are the only animals that never die. A white horse is a light-colored horse, it is better to own a dark one than a light one.

It was believed that white horses were weaker than dark ones. There are two kinds of white horses, the first is a white horse, the second is a white horse.

Some folks just won't read and it will

Selling a Horse
Four white feet, and hair right away.
Three white feet, keep him to a day.
Two white feet, and him to a friend.
One white foot, keep him to the end.

The second and strongest poem applies to buying a horse.

One white sock, boy him!
Two white socks, try him!
Three white socks, day him!

Your white socks and a white nose.
Take off his hide and there it is the crowd.

At this point, a horse is a white horse, it is better to own a dark one than a light one.

It was believed that white horses were weaker than dark ones. There are two kinds of white horses, the first is a white horse, the second is a white horse.

AOC helps a business dream come true.

Four years ago, John Bourne and Barry Simpson of Red Deer planned to set up their own fabrication and welding shop to serve the oil field drilling industry.

When conventional lending sources were unable to provide financial assistance, John and Barry turned to the Alberta Opportunity Company. They had a good business plan and we were able to help.

"AOC helped us get the whole operation off the ground," says John Bourne. Comments Barry Simpson: "The people at AOC have always been extremely helpful."

Repellents — how they work

By Joanne Benger
462-838

There are countless ways to deter insects from your home. Some repellents contain ever 10 per cent of the active ingredient.

Since 1978, all such repellents sold in Canada have had to conform to the Pest Control Products Act, administered by Agriculture Canada. That act requires that insect repellents provide at least four hours protection against bites, and that manufacturers back up any claims listed on the product's label.

Nearly all bug repellents contain "DEET," or the active ingredient—diethyltoluamide, which works well against a variety of pests.

Other preparations use synthetic chemicals, a slightly other chemical which contains a smaller range of flying insects. Neither sound pound deers stinging in mind.

Now all repellents contain very low list the percentage of active ingredient in the product, reading the label is your best guide to which type of repellent will work best. Some brands only 10 per cent repellent, the remainder being inert ingredients which propel the spray or make it more easily applied. In general, spray and lotion repellents are more effective than those that are not.

One point to remember about repellents—they work only where applied. If you have a patch of skin, the mosquitoes may bite through clothing, as a full spray treatment may be desired. However, they do not stain clothes with a spray, spray and powder. It also can be applied to the face, neck, and hands.

Then, repellents will not prevent insects from entering near your body, but they should stay bugs from landing. This screen of protection can last several hours, but is washed away by sweat, rain or water. Depending on the level of physical activity and the weather, most applications may be required in a day.

Replace worry with trust

By Ben A.P. Irving
Worry could be almost a disease of mind over which might happen. Many a person has suffered much because of anxiety over things that never did happen.

Jesus, in the sermon on the mount, gave seven reasons why we should not be over anxious or worried about the future.

I believe God wants us to plan and prepare for the future. Provide it the money for the needs of the winter. When our care for tomorrow makes us talk to face today, it has become anxious care and Jesus tells us how we can be free from this. We read about it in Matthew 6:25-34.

First—the is more than food and the body more than clothing. Both of these items are very important, but there is something even more important. Again I believe there is a certain one that we must take, but let us avoid that over anxious care.

Rev. A. P. Irving

other parts of his creation. "Should the hairs of thy head be numbered?" (Mt. 10:30) and "Is not the grass of the field so numbered?" (Mt. 10:31) These God provides for the birds and the animals why should we doubt his care for us?

Can I, by anxious care or worry, solve the great problems of life? Can I become shorter or taller by worry? (V. 27) All worry really does is make me more unworthy of God's love and grace.

God has clothed the flowers with a beauty that for purposes anything man is able to do. All this time of year we are reminded of the beauty of God's handiwork as we see all the beautiful flowers. Again I believe there is a certain one that we must take, but let us avoid that over anxious care.

God will provide for us if we will but trust Him. (V. 30 and 31) Faith is so simple yet so very far reaching. The pattern of life for those who do not believe in God, is to try to provide on their own or anxiously worry. Do not pattern your life after them. (V. 27) Year, heavenly Father, bless your people. This is the greatest truth of all in comforting anxious worry. (V. 34)

The man who first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and all these things will be added unto you. (V. 33)

By trusting God I can take each day, we can have the promise of having all of God's Kingdom.

We can replace worry with trust.

Wayside Cleanings

Of all the things that we need today, one that we need most is to have to know what God is calling us to do. The Gospel is reaching into almost every home, by radio, by television, by the Holy Spirit, speaking into the hearts of His people everywhere, and they are responding like a great army to the spread of the good news!

We are beginning to see great waves of Christian testimony that forgets past man-made barriers, and those in need have to study God's word. Little prayer and study groups are springing up in almost every neighborhood. God is blessing their fellowship, and making His word come alive in their hearts, becoming very personal, and very relevant, to those who seek Him.

Coming up, we see the Bride of Christ... His church... becoming aware of how sad to make herself ready for her wedding. This is beginning to occur for the wedding of the world by the Word spoken of in Eph. 5:25-27 to make her without spot or wrinkle. God Himself will bring forth a testimony of His Word for the people that will do just that. For in Rev. 19:7 we read "The marriage of the Lamb has come and His wife, the church, has made herself ready. To her it was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen and when she has done this she is the righteousness of the Saints."

We're tightening up on people who abuse Unemployment Insurance.

Most people getting unemployment insurance play by the rules. But some people don't seem to know that they can't take a job and collect benefits without telling us they're working. That's why employers are being asked to send us the starting date and Social Insurance Number of any new hires from computer payroll tapes for each employee they hire or rehire. This information is cross-checked with the Social Insurance Numbers of people receiving unemployment insurance benefits. Only cases of potential abuse will ever surface. After investigation, anyone found receiving benefits to which they are not entitled will have to repay them. It may be an honest mistake. Some people forget or don't understand they must tell Unemployment Insurance and report their total earnings when they start a new job. In that case, repayment of the debt is required. But a penalty or prosecution may follow when the new system detects people wrongly collecting benefits. If you are collecting unemployment insurance benefits, and start a new job, please say so on your S/I claim report card.

REAs changed farm life

By Stephen Gosholt

Only about a third of the farmers in Alberta had electricity in 1964, but the push was on to get electrical power to all the farms in the province.

Rural electrification agencies were springing up everywhere, and district agricultural extension officers received many requests from farmers for electrical power to farm wiring.

The farmers wanted to have the facilities and conveniences enjoyed by city dwellers as quickly as possible. These included hot and cold running water that they could have a bath in their homes, which would replace their Saturday night sewage bath, and inside the long cold walks to the outhouse or outhouse—carry the latrine to the outhouse and dump it in the outhouse. This was a major improvement in rural life.

The installation of electricity would also mean the end of the old-fashioned cow and horse milking sheds with hand milked cows and horses.

Electrical power would mean that farmers could bring new power lines to the farmstead to dry the alfalfa in the sun. The alfalfa was then the best of the whole lot.

Electrical power meant black hatters, automatic pumps and water pressure systems.

It was in November, 1964, that I started my first job with Alberta Agriculture's extension division as a Friday afternoon volunteer, as much as a "thank you" letter on the way back up and back up. The following Friday we were at a school assembly for Albertans, joined up and the second number of a two-man team.

We spent about three weeks collecting our equipment, putting banners and rigging up demonstration boards. We loaded all the material into a forty year old Ford truck and took off to conduct 13 one-week schools on planning water and sewage systems and farm wiring. The schools were held in as many as ten schools in the area. The schools were held in as many as ten schools in the area. The schools were held in as many as ten schools in the area.

Alberta Agriculture

DANSON CREEK, B.C. Farm writers are an interesting group, especially in Alberta. First and foremost they are reporters, describing events as they are from a distance that will keep readers both informed and entertained.

They also have another name: they are writers. They are not just reporters, but they are also writers. They are not just reporters, but they are also writers. They are not just reporters, but they are also writers.

Among the members attending this association's annual meeting in the city of Regina, the province's capital, the association's members will be discussing the state of the province's agriculture.

NFU says fed. policy a failure

The National Farmers' Union wants Alberta government support to phase control of feed grains and oilseed sales under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Wheat Board.

The report was made in a submission presented June 28 to a cabinet committee of the provincial government by a delegation of NFU members headed by registered co-ordinator Ed Hestey.

In its annual submission, the Union argued that the federal food grains policy introduced in 1974 has failed to meet any of its stated objectives, and had resulted in loss of income to Alberta wheat producers and a shift in Bowness production out of the province paralleled by a reduction in most processing facilities.

The NFU submission also requested the Alberta government to "reconsider its current anti-Crow policy and stated that the most practical way for farmers to retain the "benefit" of the Crow was to retain the Crow estate as they are.

The NFU rejects the concept that railway companies must be run as private corporations whose objective is to serve profit and wants support for integrating the railways under public management to serve national interests.

Pointing to mismanagement in the Alberta law industry, the Farmers' Union suggested that the recently announced $2 million stock-pile program, while welcome in the short run, was not running fast enough to stay where they are.

The farm group complained over the lack of consistent policies to address production. The NFU charged that the Alberta Cattle Commission does not represent policy views of thousands of farmers who disagree with its policy positions, and called for its dissolution. Support for a National Meat Authority was again requested.

The National Farmers' Union says that, while operating costs in Alberta have been mounting steadily, support, reduced not only the cost of feed, but also the cost of production. "Literally, many farmers 'literally' are not running fast enough to stay where they are."

The farm group complained of the provincial government for introducing a beginning farmer loss program, but noted that the program has only limited application for overall control of income.

Quebec was expressed over high agricultural land use and argued that the market-oriented approach which treats land as a commodity reflects a distorted value language a basic reason.

The NFU recommended a land tenure policy that includes a system of public and private ownership that would result in retention of control of land production by farm families.

The NFU also called for: "Implementation of a Veterans program; a management for sale program with production;

a maximum limit of 15,000 home producers; a publicly owned electric power and natural gas distribution; a 50/50 division of mineral property as a matter of law; an end to extra or direct billing for medical care; and a immediate attention to the disposal of hazardous chemicals.

Hog dispute

Uniform to mediate?

In a presentation to the Farm Marketing Agency last week, the Union offered to mediate in bringing together opposing interests in the so-called "hog war."

In making this offer to the agency, the Union said that farm president Howard Palumbo said the farm organization recognized that it will be difficult to find a place to begin and that solutions that have developed in recent months are not likely to be held steady.

He said there was no way to settle the current

Not enough barley

In its first crop output report of the year, United Grain Growers (UGG) Friday announced grain farmers will need only 10.7 million acres of barley.

The figure is well below the 11.1 million acres Barometer Canada reported farmers intended to seed barley, though it is 19 per cent above last year's 9.08 million acreage.

Combined with the effects on yields of the current drought in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and a low carryover of barley stocks, UGG reported "supplies will be large enough to service both domestic needs and export markets."

The public corporation reported the average acreage to be seeded was 8.7 acres harvested from 1979 and said the figure "would be down even more than the average indicated." It stated the reason was far average reports only seeded average and made no allowance for the extensive acreage of reported that have been worked down because of pestilence.

UGG estimated carryover stocks of 1990 are considered adequate and, even though needs will be down, supplies seen crop year "should be a maximum limit of 15,000 home producers; a publicly owned electric power and natural gas distribution; a 50/50 division of mineral property as a matter of law; an end to extra or direct billing for medical care; and a immediate attention to the disposal of hazardous chemicals.

most domestic and export needs."

The all-Canadian supply was estimated to be 38.7 million, up six per cent over last year. The average acreage to be seeded of 11.1 million acres is about 15 per cent more than last year. There will be a large carryover of red spring and durum wheat.

The area sown to oats was estimated to be 6.68 million, only three per cent more than 1979. Stocks of oats are considered short, UGG stated.

The public's first acreage in 1990 is estimated to be 1.28 million, down almost 15 per cent from 1979. Stocks estimated with 1980 output "should prove adequate."

UGG reported the substantial drop in fall rye yields this year are marginal by the 5.7 per cent drop in seed acreage this year compared to last. Stocks of rye are considered "very short."

The average in summer/fallow this year is estimated to be 26.5 million, almost identical to last year's 26.5 million. No allowance has been made, however, for needed acreage that has been and will be worked down and followed for the balance of the year.
